Dear Fred:

Many thanks for your letter of January 26, 1959. It was good to hear from you and to get news of you both. I suggest that you have Miss [redacted] call my office (Executive [redacted] extension [redacted] and I will try to have a word with her and possibly arrange for her to discuss the particular subject of her interest with some knowledgeable person here.

Frankly, these days with Congress just beginning, I am very badly tied up and it is hard to give as much personal time to individual matters as I should have liked. At any rate, it will be good to see her and it may be that I can give her some leads.

Clover joins me in kindest regards to Isabell and you.

Sincerely,

Dear Allen:

I always look back with satisfaction on our time in Switzerland. Now my trips abroad are too short, like my trip next Thursday to Bogota for only two days.

Today I am writing you about Miss Emily Ann Morris, daughter of our family doctor, who will finish at DePauw University next year, majoring in Political Science. From January to June this year, she is doing the "Washington Semester" at American University, 20 Plattsburg Court, Washington, D.C. Her principal projects of the semester are on:

"Senate Hearing Reforms", and
"Reforms of the Vice Presidency"

In this connection she is asked to interview high government officials. You must have some interesting views on Senate Hearing Reforms. I wonder if you would devote a short time to seeing her. If you can do it, and will drop me a line about a suitable time, I will let her know.

Her ambition is to work for the State Department, eventually.

Isabell and I both send our best regards.

Sincerely yours,

Fred
